The Life-Saving Service.

Washington, Nov. 28. - The annual report bt General Superintendent Kimball, of the life-saving service, shows: The establishment embraced at the close of the last fiscal wear 218 stations, as follows: One hundred and sixty-six on the Atlantic, 44 on the lakes, on the Pacific and one at the Falls of the Ohio, Louisville, Ky. The number of disasters to documented vessels reported within the field of station operations during the year was 332. On board these vessels were 327 persons, of whom 6,272 were saved and 55 lost. The value of the vessels involved in the disasters is $4,786,925, and that of their cargoes at $2,288,775, making the fotal value of the property $7,075,700, of which $5,788,520 was saved and $1,296,880 lost. The total number of vessels totally lost was 72. Hesides the foregoing there were during the year 135 casualties to smaller trafts, such as sail boats, row boats, etc., on which there were 274 persons, 271 of whom were saved. An unusual number of storms and prevalence of fogs made the operations of the service more than commonly difficult and dangerous, but nevertheless the station crews succeeded in saving a much greater number of lives and a larger amount of property than ever before, in some instances performing feats of unparalleled enterprise and daring. A summary of the statistics of the service from the introduction of the present system in 1871, to the close of the of the property $7,075,700, of which $5,788,520 tistics of the service from the introduction of the present system in 1871, to the close of the lascal year, shows: Total number of disasters, 8,852; total value of vessels and cargoes in-volved, 85,549,779; saved, 846,330,992; lost, 518,218,787; total number of persons involved, 55,427; saved, 34,883; lost, 544. The loss of life, as stated above, includes 183 persons lost at the wrecks of the steamers Huron and Metropolis and also 14 other persons, really not chargeable to the service, leaving the lotal number of lives lost during the sixteen regars of the existence of the system only 347. years of the existance of the system only 347 but of over 35,000 involved. The Standard Oil Hearing.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 28 .- In the Standard

bil cases to-day nothing new came out except some interesting facts about the development of the use of cotton seed oil in many ways, given incidentally by one of the witnesses. The evidence is now all in. The complainants seem to have proved conclusively that the railroads almost always give largely discriminating rates in favor of oil in tank cars and that the Standard Oil company is practically the only institution whose plant enables it to avail itself to any great extent of the lower rates. The railroads have pre-sented a number of apparently strong reasons for giving lower rates on tank cars and asserted that no special privileges are ac-torded any institution or individual as against any other. The Standard oil witnesses de-chared that they neither asked nor would accept any rebates, lower rates or discrimi-nating privileges. All the testimony of this kind, however, was limited to the period kind, however, was limited to the period since the inter-state law went into effect. rguments will be heard January 16.

QUARRELING OVER THE TITLE.

The Question to Be Brought Before the National Board of Arbitration For Final Settlement in December.

The Defunct Western League.

Kansas City, Nov. 28 .- | Special Telegram to the BEE.] - When the Western league held its last meeting all the business of the organization was settled, but Mr. Menges, the president, did not see fit to give notice of its official disbandment. It was generally understood, however, that the Western league was a thing of the past. The new league was organized at Chicago, and Omaha and Kansas City, of the old Western league, were admitted as members. The new organization was given the name of "The Western Association." The name, however, has been given little prominence in the newspapers and people generally have referred to association as the new West-league. Mr. Elliott Marshall, the the former secretary of the Western league, was among those who gave the new concern the title of the old. Suddenly it occurred to him that it would be a good scheme to bring him that it would be a good scheme to bring the matter before the national arbitration committee. He did so and the new league was charged with stealing the name of the old organization. It is the business of the arbitration committee to listen to and consider every complaint that is put before it, no matter how trival, and accordingly Mr. Marshall at St. Joe was in receipt of a dispatch this morning from Mr. Barnie, secretary of the committee, which invited him to meet the board in December, when his grievances would be talked over.

Mr. Menges said this morning in relation

Mr. Menges said this morning in relation to the dispatch: "This man Marshall is making a very foolish move and one in which the arbitration committee will take no in-terest. The new league has not taken the terest. The new league has not taken the name of the old one, and what if it has? The Western league is a thing of the past, and, while it has not disbanded, no clubs compose it, therefore it does not exist."

Secretary Burns, of the arbitration committee, said the other day that there were only two base bail organizations outside of the two leaders that had the protection of the committee, but this the Western league has not got, and it cannot therefore be recognized. "Possibly there will be a Western league "Possibly there will be a Western league next year, in which case the committee could be called upon to protect it. Omaha and Kansas City may be represented in the West-ern league, but I do not suppose that there are men in Kansas City with enough nerve to organize a club and then try and compete financially with the new club. The real rea-son for Mr. Marshall's complaint is, I think, because Kansas City and Omaha have given up all idea of being members of the Western league should it again organize. I cannot see why Marshall should be interested in our movements at all, as St. Joe, the city he represents, cannot support a base ball club, and could neither enter the new or old organization."

INDIAN BARBARITIES.

An Ancient and Horrible Custom Revived by the Chippewas. DULUTH, Minn., Nov. 28.—[Special Telegram to the Brn.]—The Evening Journal says a Duruth pine land explorer recently returned from a trip through northern Michigan and Wisconsin reports a curious custom among the Indians, which has been recently resurrected. While at a place called "Birteautserus," the Indian meaning being "where Caribou died', near Portage Lake, he came across the entirely nude bodies of three Indian girls hanging lifeless from the branches of a tree. His Indian guide and hunter then told him a remarkable story of events in connection with these young squaws. The Indians of Birteautserus, fearing removal to the White Earth reservation, decided to try and evoke the blessing and aid of the great spirit, and brought forth an old custom which has long been forgotten. Three of the prettiest long been forgotten. Three of the prettiest Indian girls in the band of Chippewas were then invited to a feast, and after receiving attention and decorations by all assembled, were invited to partake of a draught of liquid which had been prepared by the medicine men of the tribe. Without any knowledge of the deadly nature of the liquid they drank, and in a few minutes were beyond human assistance. For three days and nights the Indians then held a wierd and exciting service over the corpses and then buried them with all pomp and ceremony Indian Agent Gregory is investigating the affair and it is extremely probable that some thing will be done to punish the murderers of these innocent victims of an old and bar-

ALL WANT HIM TO STAY. Pastor Sherrill Unanimously Asked to Withdraw His Resignation.

There was a large turnout of the members of the First Congregational church at the tabernacle, last evening, to hear the final decision of the Rey. A. F. Sherrill in regard to the reconsideration of his resignation as pastor of that church, Mr. Sherrill informed them, in his kindly way, that, after a careful consideration of the matter, he had again decided to resign. He realized that there were persons in the congregation antagonistic to him, and who thought him incapable of properly managing the church after getting into their new quarters. He therefore, for the interests of all concerned, thought it best to leave the place open for a more desirable incumbent. An animated scene followed this decision, and their was a unanimity of opinion in favor of refusing to accept the resignation. The climax was reached when Mr. Burnham, on behalf of the minority, who, by the way, number only four or five persons, said that the opposition had decided to make their opinion bend to the will of the great impority, and they would ratify whatever action was taken. This caused an outburst of enthusiasm, and it was immediately moved to appoint a committee of two to wait on Mr. Sherrill and inform him that it was the unanimous vote of his congregation that his resignation should not be accepted. This was overwhelmingly carried without a their new quarters. He therefore, for the that his resignation should not be accepted. This was overwhelmingly carried without a dissenting vote, and Messrs. Marshall and Fleming were appointed as that committee. There is no doubt now but that Mr. Sherrill will withdraw his resignation, as in presenting it he had said he would not again reconsider his action unless the congregation as a unit asked him so to do. Mr. Sherrill has been the faithful pastor of this church for over eighteen years, and by his simplicity of character and greatness of heart has completely wrapped himself around the affections of his people; and now that they are about to move in a couple of weeks from the cheerless old rink into their magnificent new church building they feel that he is entitled to share the elegant new quarters with them. to share the elegant new quarters with them. "Great Wrong" Scores a Great Success at the Grand.

The first performance of a "Great Wrong" was given last night at the Grand opera house to a demonstrative audience. The piece is a prenounced melo-drama involving many of the features and nearly the same line of characters as were brought to the attention of the public through the medium of the "Black Flag" and "The World." It is a tale of injustice, harrowing in its enormity yet happily terminating in reparation of the wrongs of the persecuted hero. There are few scenes overdrawn and nearly all of them are distinguished by either pathos or power or both. Mr. Studley, last evening, was carcless in some of his lines and the inflection of some of his sentences was not in accord with every day utterances. It betrayed a lingering effect of the settled style of the higher drama with which Mr. Studley has been identified. His delineation, however, of the here was a strong one and was every of the here was a strong one and was has been identified. His delineation, however, of the hero was a strong one and was warmly received by the audience. Mr. Studiey is supported by a strong company, especially Percy Meldon, Richard P. Crolius, who makes a very laughable Jew; G. D. McIntyre and Miss Abbie Pierce and Minnie Kisselle. The scene between Miss Pierce, as Eliza Jürley, the adventuress, with Meldon as Bragdon, the evil genius of the piece, was admirably worked up and evoked repeated plaudits. In the quieter, yet more difficult part of Miss Graham, Miss Kisselle gave a very neat, careful and artistle piece of acting.

BARADA'S CASE.

His Trial For Murder to Commence To-day -His Story.

The trial of William Barada, who charged with the murder of Pete Deger, the half-breed Indian, will probably commence this morning in the United States court Barada is a young fellow of about twenty two and has been following the vocation of a farmer. His father is a Frenchman, now living at Lincoln, and his mother has some Indian blood in her veius, being one-fourth Indian and three-fourths French. Barada is very sanguine of the outcome in his case, expecting to be cleared on the ground of self detense. Barada says that when the fatal quarrel took place some five months ago. had unjustly accused him of insulting the half-breed's wife, and threatened to kil him for it, at the same time drawing his As Deger was a large and powerfu was pursued. Being hard pressed, Barada snatched a batchet from a woodpile and threw it at Deger, bitting him in the face. At this juncture the half-breed's brother joined in the chase, and catching up with Barada commenced to horsewhip him, Seizing a heavy club Barada stood at bay, and when Deger came running up with the hatchet just thrown. Barada struck him a fierce blow over the head with his club, crushing the skull and killing him instantly. Barada was horrified at the termination of the quarrel, but supposing it to be a case of justifiable homicide made no effort to escape, and readily allowed himself to be arrested. He thinks his confinement thus far is sufficient punishment for his deed.

Mysterious Disappearance. Fred Werth, a deaf mute who lives with his mother on Tenth street, near Castellar, and who is a printer in the Nebraska Tribune office, has mysteriously disappeared. The last seen of him was last Seturday night about 10:30, when he came home with his week's salary. After sitting in the kitchen a few moments with his mother he went out into the yard, and a few moments afterward she heard a man cursing just with-out the door, and sounds as if two men were engaged in a struggle with each other, She sprang to her feet, and, opening the deer, ran out into the yard, and almost into the arms of a big, rough-looking man. He ordered her to return to the house, but instead she set up a cry for help, and the man scaled the fence and was gone. Since then she has heard no word from her son, nor has diligent search resulted in the discovery of any clue to what has become of him.

WINDY BOB'S CAREER ENDED

A Well Known Omaha Tough Reported Lynched in Missouri.

HE KILLS A WEALTHY FARMER.

Neighbors Take Him From the Custody of the Sheriff and Hang Him to the Nearest Tree -His Career.

An Omaha Man Lynched.

Robert C. Poland, better known in Omaha by the sobriquet of "Windy Bob," has been, it is reported, forced by Judge Lynch to end his disreputable career and yesterday morning his cold and stiff body was cut down from a tree near a small town in Missouri. The tragic end of this well known crook was related last night by a friend of the dead man who had just reached Omaha, brought about in the following manner: During Sunday night a farmer named Joyce was aroused from his sleep only to find a masked man in his room. He must have uttered some cry, as the robber immediately fired, killing Mr. Joyce instantly. He then made his escape. carrying with him all the articles of value he could lay his hands on. A hue and cry was soon raised and the frightened neighbors hurried to the scene. One look at the dead body of their neighbor was enough. A posse was organized at once under the charge of the sheriff and the hunt for the murderer began. At 2 o'clock Monday morning he was found hiding in a swamp. The sheriff advanced toward the desperade and ordered him to surrender. The only reply was a pistol shot. This called forth a volley from the sheriff's posse, and the murderer gave himself up. He had only been hit once by the shots of his captors, and that one lodged in the thigh. He was scarched and the missing property found upon him. I sheriff then placed the man under arrest. But the crowd pushed the sheriff to one side and ordered him under pain of death not to speak. Poland was then given one minute in which to pray. At the expiration of that time he was seized and bound. A rope was passed over the limb of aftree and the desperado hauled up. His struggles were frightful, and his is face was so contorted as to cause the bravest heart momentary horror. The crowd then departed. Yesterday morning a rabbit hunter found the banging body swinging in the wind. Pinned to the dead man's breast was a slip of paper warning all burglars to "steer clear of this town."

"Steer clear of this town."

POLAND'S OMARA HISTORY.

"Windy Bob" was a swell known hack driver in this city. He was better known as a crook and desperate obaracter. He had a mistress planed Annie Henry, who also shared her favors with one John Pierson. Over this women the two men got into a quarrel and Poland was arrested and sent to half upon a sixty-day sentence, happened about one and or years ago. Previous to this I years ago. Previous to this Poland had served nearly twenty short sen-tences in the jail for minor offenses. His jail life seems to have been the only decent portion of his entire career, and his was placed on parole by Jailer Miller, that is allowed to do work outside of the prison walls. This confidence he betrayed and escaped. That was the last heard of him until the news came of his lynching last night.

Poland was probably sent to jail oftener than any crook in Omaha. He was of an exceedingly quarrelsome nature and on the slightest pretense would precipitate a fight. His prison life has not been confined to Omaha, as he served time in Kansas City and in Minnesota: He was well known as a prize fighter. He fought draws with Zeke Murdock and Pat Gillespie in or near this About five years ago he had some trouble with Doug. Burnes, now living in Council Bluffs, and stabbed Burnes in the face, in-flicting a wound fully four inches in length. This occurred near Henry Lucas' place on Twelfth street.

He was considered a very bad man, and was always ready with his knife or pistol. He shot a man in Minneapolis in 1882, and only escaped punishment by some technicality of law.

FOR the year 1888 FRANK LESLIE'S "POPULAR MONTHLY," which has been aptly styled "THE MONARCH OF THE MONTHLIES," will be better than ever. Articles upon topics of current public interest, sketches of eminent persons, strong and brilliant stories, and poetry of a high order, profusely illustrated by the best artists, and all by writers of recognized merit, will fill its pages. To the old and favorite corps of contributors will be added writers or promise, and no effort will be spared to keep the magazine in the foremost rank. In the November number was begun an earnest and powerful ta'e,
